Shoe Snippets

Fun facts about the historic Cummings Center site, formerly known as "The Shoe"

Students who were interested in becoming mechanics or inventors were given the opportunity to work at The Shoe while attending school. Two groups of boys would rotate each week between Beverly High School and the factory to gain knowledge and experience. These boys were paid only half the wage of regular employees. The other half went to school expenses. Both parties gained from this early co-op program: Students received an education and hands-on experience to help them succeed in the future, and The Shoe benefited from the opportunity to train potential employees from an early age.
